

WOMEN'S POWER TO

a global movement of WILPF

WOMEN'S INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE FOR PEACE
AND FREEDOM

Centenary EVENTS

28 - 30 MAY 2015

Great Hall, University House,
Australian National University,
CANBERRA

WOMEN'S POWER TO STOP WAR is a global movement of WILPF, connecting, strengthening and celebrating the work of women peacemakers all over the world. The movement of 100 years will culminate in an Anniversary Conference on Disarmament, Gender and Security from 27-29 April, in The Hague, where the original Congress was held in 1915 and where a new peace agenda will be forged for the 21st Century.

WILPF does not stand alone in fighting for women's participation in building sustainable peace. For this reason you are invited to engage in WOMEN'S POWER TO STOP WAR and to participate in WILPF Australia's Centenary events:

WILPF National Peacewomen Awards

28
MAY

WOMEN'S POWER TO STOP WAR
Australian Conference

29
MAY

Register at www.wilpf.org.au (under Centenary)

21-29
FEB MAY

WILPF Centenary Women's Power to Stop War Exhibition,
Canberra Museum and Gallery, London Circuit, Canberra

27-29
APRIL

WILPF International Centenary Conference Women's Power to Stop War at The Hague. See Program at www.womenstopwar.org

28
MAY

WILPF Australian Peacewomen Awards,
Great Hall, University House, Australian National University, Canberra

Recipients of the Awards, Dr Helen Caldicott, anti-nuclear campaigner; Dr Anne Gallagher, AO, expert on international law on human trafficking; Dr Helen Durham, expert on International Humanitarian Law; and Ms Kirstie Parker, Co-Chair of the National Congress of Australia's First Peoples and a Director of Reconciliation Australia are representative of WILPF's founding principles of working for peace by non-violent means and promoting political, economic and social justice for all.

Register at www.wilpf.org.au

29
MAY

WILPF Australia Centenary Conference
WOMEN'S POWER TO STOP WAR Australian Conference,
Great Hall, University House, Australian National University, Canberra

The Conference will be about establishing the principles of sustainable peacebuilding and exploring the root causes of conflict - as was done at The Hague in 1915 - taking into account human rights, disarmament, social and economic justice and challenging militaristic solutions to achieving security.

Keynote speakers will be Madeleine Rees, Secretary-General of WILPF International, formerly Head of the Women's Rights and Gender Unit of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights and gender expert and Head of Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in Bosnia and Herzegovina; and Natasha Stott Despoja, Australia's Global Ambassador for Women and Girls.

Register at www.wilpf.org.au

30
MAY

WILPF Australia members' Triennial Conference, Great Hall,
University House, Australian National University, Canberra

Register at www.wilpf.org.au

Other activities:

28-02
APRIL MAY

In association with WILPF, A Chorus of Women will be holding a Festival for Peace at the Albert Hall, Commonwealth Avenue, Canberra including three performances of their community oratorio A Passion for Peace on 28th and 30th April and 2nd May. The program will include a full day on 30 April devoted to WILPF's theme of Women's Power to Stop War. Full program and tickets at www.chorusofwomen.org